Voorhees, NJ - Caterpillars transform into butterflies, the ordinary into the extraordinary, and the powerless into the powerful. At the heart of Transformations, a new South Jersey holistic learning center lies the vision to transform lives – to help individuals, families and communities actualize their highest potential while contributing to the greater good.

Poised to become the Greater Delaware Valley's premier holistic education resource, Transformations provides professional coaching, group sessions, workshops and an annual holistic learning conference designed to inspire and empower individuals and organizations, and bring balance to every facet of their life – physically, emotionally, intellectually and spiritually.

Transformations focuses on unleashing the genius within its clients by customizing its services to meet their needs. Comprised of entrepreneurs, psychiatrists, business and life coaches, spiritual leaders, among other highly professional and holistically developed individuals, the Transformations faculty is a diverse body of knowledge that utilizes success principles and laws of attraction to support the goals and visions of those with whom they work.

"Having a desire to invest time, energy and resources (in yourself) to be more holistically healthy is the first of Ten Secrets of a Successful Transformation. It's all about one's attitude and willingness to take action," says Scott Rosen, Founder and CEO of Transformations.

Open year-round, Transformations offers full- and half-day workshops and private coaching appointments on weekdays and weekends. Clients interested in the comprehensive Transformations Package will focus on just some of the following areas – from identifying their purpose and mission in life to developing action plans and steps necessary to create their Ideal Future Life™.
